Course overview

Investigating colour as form will enable you to think about colour theory and explore a synthesis of processes, structure and surface. You will be encouraged to consider how you develop a composition, specificity of colour choice and surface fracture (handling of the paint). You will be encouraged to experiment with the interaction of colour throughout the course; its fluidity, chromatic value, scale and dynamic juxtapositions.

The context and theory will be important in underpinning your initial exploration. Your relationship with the mechanics of painting will develop from collage experiments particularly focused on colour contrast and form. The collages produced will be a spring-board for a series of abstract colour compositions. We will explore a range of artists from Matisse to the colour field painters such as Rothko, Helen Frankenthaler and contemporary colourists such as Sarah Morris, Tauber Auerbach, Selma Parlour and others.

Key words: Pools of colour, chroma, float, hue, barely visible, bands, dispersion, fuse, modulated, microscopic, transparency, immersion, fluid, reductive, translucent, masked, scratched, erased, restriction, viscosity, collision, reveal /conceal, mass.

Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Understand colour language, colour symbols, applying knowledge to the development of own paintings.
- Develop knowledge of colour intensity, chromatic value, high contrasting colour, optical relationships, modern and traditional pigments, applying findings in your own work.
- Develop compositional skills through the creation of collage.
- Use rhythm and sequence, balancing colour and form, visual strategies to develop materiality, illusion, weight, translucent surfaces through a series of practical exercises.
- Apply formal devices such as balance, motion, collision, regular or irregular forms in the creation of work.
- Develop a colour palette and colour vocabulary suitable to their individual practice.
- Plan and complete a personal project.
- Apply safe-working practices at all times.

About your tutor

Juan Bolivar is a Venezuelan born British artist and lecturer in Painting at the University of the Arts London. Bolivar graduated from Goldsmiths College in 2003. His work is included in The Government Art Collection, and selected for significant exhibitions such as New British Painting, John Hansard Gallery, University of Southampton (2004), East International at Norwich School of Art (2007), Nanjing International (2015) where he was a prize winner, and has twice been a recipient of a Pollock-Krasner award (2001/2009). He is a contributor to Turps Magazine. Recent residencies and exhibitions include Macro Museum, Rome (2019), Bauhaus Museum, Dessau (2019) and Bauhaus-Universität Weimar (2021). His paintings negotiate the tension between meaning and form. He combines elements from disparate sources to investigate hybridity, language and abstraction. Bolivar's work often re-enacts seminal canons of modernist painting such as Kazimir Malevich's 'black square' or paintings from Malevich's late period; using this context of interpretation to create new meanings from the sublime to the ridiculous.
